“Our vision for our clients is the same as Keith’s; and we know that this addition will be an outstanding business combination, which will provide a myriad of benefits for both Dunn and Mosley customers,” said Gustin. “Our abilities will now increase to provide larger and more complex project capabilities in this area with a greater focus on steel construction.” Keith Mosley and all of his current employees are now employed by Dunn.

According to Gustin, Dunn is now positioned to serve more extensively its current base of clients near Mobile which includes southern Mississippi, Louisiana, Georgia, and the panhandle of Florida.

“We like to be seen as a friendly business partner to our customers by operating like a small company within a much larger organization,” Gustin said. Dunn building services include structural steel furnish-erect, pre-engineered design-build furnish erect, heavy concrete foundations/walls, metal siding/roofing and other general construction services for owners and general contractors interested in safe and high quality construction.

The company, which is headquartered in Birmingham, was started in 1878. Dunn has a proven reputation of success with consistently over 70 percent of its projects for repeat clients.
